A third trial at baying the Ocean telegraph having been decided on by the Atlant? Company, the steamers hardtofue emply •d in that service, (the Niegara and the Agamemaon,) were to have left Queen-I town, Ireland, for milercom, on the 17th; alt. With anything Exertife weather, that destination should have been reached by the 1st inst.; and, if for inne now favors the caterprise, Ireland and Newforndland ongla to be firmly linked together by the arguatic cable by the 15th or 20th, at father.

But, with all the experience grinol by previous trials, the present expedition will scarcely have so much of the public copie dence as either of the previous ones. In other words, shor these repeated fallnessfailure is coming to be regarded rather as a matter of course, and centre success would be a most decided and emplantic disappoint

Hut a good strong hope doubtless still animates the company and its agents, meclause, scientific and formerd; and malgreall the creaking of certain jestous old ravens, as to the otter folly and impracticability of the whole concern, we see nothing ularcatly impossible or improbable in the project of a telegraphic union of the hemispheres. DEATH N CHILDHOOD,—How true and exquiritely beautiful is the loidowing impressive passage, which is taken from an article in the Dublin University Magazine. To not, lear things appear so brantful as a very young child in its shroud. The little innotent fare looks so sublimely simple and confiding amongst the cold terrors of death. Crimeless and leaders, that It the mortal has passed alone under the shadow, and explained the mystery of dissolution. There is death in its sublimest and purest image; no hatred, in hypotrisy, no purest image; no hatred, no hypotrisy, no suspicion, no care for the motion ever darkened that little face; death has come darkened that little face; death has come owingly upon it; there is unthing cruel or harsh in its victory. The yearnings of love, butced, cament be stilled; for the prattle, and smile, all the little world of thoughts that were so delightful, are gone forever. Awe, too, will overcost us in its presence, for we are looking on death, but we do not fear for the lonely voyager; for the child has gone, simple and trusting into the presence of its all wise Pather; and of such we ence of its all wise Father; and of such, w know, is the lengthom of heaven."

A TOUTHING INCIDENT. - A little boy had died. His body was laid out in a darkened room, waiting to be laid in the celd, long grave. His afflicted mother and com, long gram. #### LOCAL NEWS.

Recky Point,

This watering place, situated on the west shore of Narragansett Bay, about sixteen miles from Newport, is rapidly rising in importance as a place of summer resort. Ris Studed in the town of Warwick, and its listery forms an interesting chapter in the threalther of Yankee shrewdness and cuternaise.

A done years ago, Captain Winslow was residing in the little town of Warren. R. L. and by some means got his eyempon this spot of ground, then, under certification as a farm. Strack with its natural Length's, and soudble of the west of such a place by the first increasing light distants of Providence and other towns up the riverhe produced forty news of the grounds and empressed making a small steamer there, called the  ${\rm Arg} n_{\rm t}$  communiting her in person. At this time there was larrely a anding place, and scarrely so much as a shed, for shelter, at the Point, yet people went there, hereveing in members every year, till Captain Wisslaw, frund, it necessary to quit stemalocaling and devote like whole time and attention to building up his place and providing for the wants of his fast increasing pations. From that time the place adversed rapidly to favor as a watering place, and a report on the burn ing days of summer. Every year new attractions were added, new buildings were creeted, and steamboat owners began to find it to their advantage to make regular trips to the place, and pacieties to make excursions there-

Capt. Winslow has expended some thirty to forty thousand dollars in improving this place, which, added to lits natural at tructions, has rendered it the most attract. ive, or excursionists of may in New England, I aving ample accommutations for over two thousand persons to dine. The Captain's facilities for obtaining fish and bivalves, enables him to meet the wants of visitors in any number as they may present themselves, and his manner of cooking and serving them up is superfi.

We advise our summer friends to pay Captain Winslaw and his scashure, and rural result a visit during the season.

THE CASE OF MARGARET SCOTT,-We are informed by Mr. H. Potter and Mr. R. Chace, that the facts as to the treatment of Margaret Scott after the outrage upon her person, were not as stated in our paper of July 19, and that they are substantially as follows: After the ontrage she was found near the side of the wall, and by Mr. Chaec's orders taken to the barn by two colored hope, as being the most comfortable place, the weather being warm, where she was provided with a hed and bedding and supposing her to be laboring under the effects of intoxication it was not thought necessary to call medical aid, until morning, when some thing more serious was apprehended. The two gentlemen above referred to remained with her through the night, using every means at hand for her restoration. These facts did not come out at the examination, and hence the remarks of our reporter. We are happy to make the correction.

MARINE NEWS,-It has been our aim ever since our connection with this paper in our present capacity, to present a full and reliable account of the movements of shipping in our waters, believing it would interest a large portion of our readers, but have not been able until recently to light upon an arrangement, where the express would not for exceed the corresponding benefit. To show the importance of this feature of our paper, and the appreciation in which our efforts in this particular are held by our contemporaries, we subjoin the following extract from the Providence Post:

The The Marine Department of our pour is under frequent obligations to Mr. B. W. PERICE, local Editor of the Newport Daily News, whose courtesy and promptness in forwarding dipping intelligence, in advance of other sources of information, deserves on their surress or information, desertes something more than the usual newspaper codd. The time was when our Newport retemporary give correly any attention to its marine column, and when neither our-self nor the public ever looked, there for matters of inverest to the commercial readers. But under the present publisher this department has very much improved; and since it was placed under the direction of Mr. Pearce, has become highly interesting and valuable to local readers. By forward-ing as slips, per steamer, in advance of their publication, the editors conduct us to share with them the pleasure of publishing early and reliable news of mura ments in the Newpert naters.

We feel highly complimented by the above. Being placed to a position where we can all our brethren of the press in this particular, it affords us the greatest pleasure to do so, where a corresponding spirit of accommodation is munificated by other parties. It costs our reporter some three hours of hard labor at the oars, every day, and exposure in bad weather, to obtain this news, and it affords us pleasure to learn that the labor is appreciated.
